Baptist Church Dedicated.

The Baptist church at Rumford Falls, Rev. Harold L. Hanson, pastor, was dedicated last week. The church includes an auditorium seating nearly 300 persons. In the rear of this and adjoining is the Sunday school and prayer room, with a capacity of 100; and the ladies' parlor, seating 50, these all being connected by rolling partitions and easily thrown into one large room. The library leads out of the ladies' parlor. In the rear of the pulpit is the pastor's room and two ladies' dressing rooms for baptismal purposes. At the left of the organ is a room for the choir, all these being well lighted.

There are five entrances to the main floor, all the doors at the exits opening out. On the floor which is entered from Plymouth Avenue and which is really a half-basement section of the church with two entrances is the large vestry formerly used for preaching services and easily seating 300; and in the rear of this are the kitchen with a long corridor connecting. In the rear also is a room for the infant class, which was formerly used as a gymnasium room; also a gentlemen's dressing room. There are two lavatories.

The church is equipped with three furnaces.

The entire church is finished as to the interior with quartered oak, very simple in design and generally elegant. At the left of the nostrum is the large $500 pipe organ recently dedicated and at the right is the baptismal font. The carpet in the auditorium is of 3-ply woolen, in green, with a small figure. Throughout the church the walls are tinted from a dark shade of green at the bottom to a mere tint of green near the ceiling. The pulpit furniture is also of oak, upholstered in dark green leather, and including the five stationery seats, in green leather, the pastor's and deacons' chairs and table for the communion service, the pulpit, and two small tables for holding bouquets.

HEBRON.

Colby 16; Hebron 0.

Hebron played its first game of football this season Saturday with Colby college on the college gridiron at Waterville and gave the college boys quite a scare in the first half, keeping the ball in Colby's field the most of the time and took it to within a foot of the goal line, where Soule in his anxiety to push the ball over the line after he was down lost it. A goal from the field was all Colby could get in the first half. Colby then strengthened her team in the second half and with the fresh men took a brace and secured two touchdowns in the last half.

The line and score:

Power of the Eyes.

That the color of the eyes should affect their strength may seem strange, yet that such is the case need not be proved, and those whose eyes are brown or dark colored should be informed that they are weaker and more susceptible to injury from various causes than gray or blue eyes. Light blue eyes are generally the most powerful, and next to these are gray. The lighter the pupil the greater and longer continued is the degree of tension which the eye can sustain.

Don't use your eyes when they smart; smarting means that they are calling for rest. Beware of a dazzling sunshine or a high wind on a very dusty day; even if you have strong eyes, under such conditions better protect them with glasses.

SOUTH PARIS

George R. Hammond, who has been raising potatoes this year, brought a basket of them to the village one day, recently, and had considerable to say about them. He said he had dug 20 bushels of potatoes and that they came out of the smallest piece of ground that he knew to produce so many potatoes. There were 24 potatoes in the basket which he carried and they weighed 35 pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cotton of Auburn recently visited his brother, F. L. Cotton. They were accompanied by J. L. Mason and wife also of Auburn.

We had the pleasure one morning of this week of seeing Mrs. Nellie Thibodeau preparing butter for the market. Mr. Thibodeau thinks it pays better to market butter than cream.

The Yield of Potatoes.

Maine still holds the fifth position of all the American states in the production of potatoes—only Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Michigan and New York outranking our own state in the yield of this important crop. Last year the actual statistics gave Maine a yield of 22,605,380 bushels of potatoes valued at $11,406,180.

From the reports so far received from all the states, the potato crop of the country is generally smaller than that of last year, with the exception of the yield in this state. The crop here is much better than in the New England and northern states generally and will fall but little, if any, below the yield of last year. In view of the moderate yield in other states and the lighter demand that has existed during the past eight or nine months there will be plenty of potatoes to supply the demand without forcing prices to an abnormal level, although it can be safely said that dealers in general, as well as growers, expect prices to be considerably above the level of last year.

In ordinary seasons it does not take much of an advance in the price of potatoes to materially curtail the demand and, of course, in a season when the demand is already somewhat restricted, anything like high prices would affect the demand more than usual.

Perhaps the most important factor in this year's potato deal will be the diversion of potatoes from their usual channels in reaching markets. Generally speaking, each district has a certain part of the country which it supplies with potatoes, governed to a certain extent by favorable or unfavorable railroad rates, nearness to the consuming centers, etc.

This year, with a number of leading producing sections having a smaller production, the few districts which do have a normal production will no doubt experience a larger demand than usual. Not only will the potatoes grown in this country be shipped out of the ordinary channels to other parts of the country, but foreign countries will likely take advantage of the shortage in America and ship moderate supplies to New York and other Atlantic ports. This is done nearly every year when there is a short crop in the country, unless there is a corresponding shortage abroad.

In view of the decreased demand, it is quite probable that the reduction in the crop will not mean smaller profits to the growers, except in instances where their crops are very materially shortened. A rather short crop at good prices is frequently as profitable, or more so than a large crop at rather low prices. A very large crop this year might, therefore, have depressed prices to a low level and rendered the marketing of the crop at a profitable price a difficult task for the growers and shippers.

Desiccated Brightness.

Chopped From Our Exchanges.

"The American ladies are slow to accept change," is the declaration of one of the dressmakers' association. "This remark will be corroborated by most husbands who have had their pockets turned wrongside out."

The summer hotels are now about all closed, most of the summer people having returned to their homes in the cities. Generally speaking, the summer business has been up to the average, and many houses report the largest business in their history. While the regular vacation season is over now is the finest part of the year in the mountains.

Farmers say that the drought is likely to have an especially bad effect on old land. One man says he has some old land that has been literally baked and the roots of the grass turned out. He says it will be worthless next year unless it is broken up.

A Scottish farmer was proudly showing a visitor an antique clock which had recently come into his possession. "Isn't that a gran' clock?" he said. "I bought it at an auction sale in the town the other day and got a rare bargain."

"Yes, but does it keep good time?" the visitor asked.

"Ah, well, it's no good enough to catch a train or that sort of thing, but good enough to get up to yer breakfast wi'."

"I saw one of your old girls today," began the wife.

"And I saw one of your old beaux," responded the husband. "Suppose I call it a tie and switch the conversation to something else."

It was so agreed.

A very fat lady got on the train and as she was taking the seat in front of two young men the would be funny man said: "Look at that fat woman in front of us. She's been eating yeast."

And this joke they both enjoyed hugely. At the next station the joker got off, but as he was passing the other man stopped him and said, "Young man, if you had eaten more yeast you would have had better raising and been better bred," and this joke the other passenger are still repeating.

L. D. Brown supplied on the Hutchins which farmers in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin were the first to organize and put into a practical and systematic operation. Farmers in our own state may be slow to recognize their importance and yet slowly to form such associations for their benefit, although such are likely to take a leading part in the improvement of local agricultural conditions in Maine.

It is estimated that about fifteen million cans of corn have been packed in the forty or more corn canneries in the state of Maine during the season just closed. This is a record for the state, and newspaper paragraphs and editorials are full of praise for the inhabitants of Maine for raising a big lot of corn, eat it all themselves, and what they can't eat they can.

Mad Dog Fallacy.

Another Example of Common Sense Defeating Ignorance.

"Mad dog! Run!"

The alarming cry sounded repeatedly as the truly good people of the Brookdale section of Bloomfield, N. J., were going home from church, recently. Hearing it, pious deacons took to their heels and gallant beaux hurriedly helped young women over fences, proving, evidently, that tan shoes and stockings are very fashionable in Bloomfield. Down the street dashed a black dog, its eyes glaring and foam flowing its jaws as it became any dog with rabies. But it did not try to bite any human or any dog; every now and then it halted and pawed its mouth and howled mournfully.

The dog approached Miss Cissy Campbell, a farmer's daughter, but she did not try to escape it. The cries redoubled:

"Mad dog! Run!"

"Egad, how cringing, crawled to Miss Cissy's feet and looked up at her appealingly, its attitude saying plainly:

"Please help me." As Miss Cissy knelt and opened the dog's mouth several young men plucked up courage to approach.

"Isn't he mad?"

"I guess he is," said Miss Cissy, calmly, "and any of you would be mad if you had an angry hornet in your mouth."

Snapping at fleas, the dog had made a serious mistake. With a sliver of wood Miss Cissy recovered the bedraggled but still vigorous hornet from the grateful brute's swollen mouth.

Named by the People

Half a century ago, Rev. Fr. John (John of Lowell), Mass., through overwork and exposure, became seriously ill. A cold and stubborn cough and lung trouble threatened his life. An eminent specialist gave Father John, as he was fondly called, a prescription to take the cold and remove the lung trouble, as well as to build up and strengthen the body. The clergyman began to improve at once, the cough disappeared and his lungs healed. It corrected the digestion, made new tissue and Father John was soon restored to his former health and strength.

Father John recommended the medicine to his parishioners and friends, and because of its merits it became the family remedy in thousands of homes, and became known as "Father John's Medicine," having been so named by the people, and was advertised, all with the approval of Father John.

It will cure all throat and lung troubles, prevent Pneumonia and Consumption, and make flesh and strength if taken faithfully. It is not a patent medicine and does not contain alcohol or poisonous drugs. Read guarantee, which follows:—

$25,000.00 Guarantee

This sum of money, $25,000.00, will be given to any charitable institution if it can be shown that the story of Father John's Medicine is not true in every particular.

Horse drawing.—The load on the drag was made of two pounds of stones for each pound of weight of the horses, and two pounds were added for each pound of extra weight of the pairs of horses competing. The time limit was three minutes. In the class for horses 1100 pounds or over there were three contestants. The horses of S. L. Plummer of Lovell pulled the drag 117 feet and 7 inches. The team of George Walker of Fryeburg drew the load 8 feet, and the pair hitched on by H. D. Harnden of East Fryeburg moved the drag 97 feet and 6 inches.

In the class for horses under 1100 pounds there was only one entry, the team owned by A. R. Hall of Brownfield. They moved the load 32 feet and 10 inches, and were awarded second premium.

In the contest of horses on the drag A. R. Hall's pair pulled the load 98 feet and 10 inches; Clarence Osgood's span 84 feet and H. D. Harnden's pair 95 feet and 11 inches.

The fair the last day had an attendance of about 1200. The society has made money out of this year's exhibition, and after all bills are paid a handsome balance will remain in the treasury.

The game of foot ball was between the eleven of Fryeburg Academy and the Bridgton High school, and resulted in favor of the Academy boys by a score of 5 to 0.

At 10.30 a. m. C. S. Stetson, master of the Maine State Grange, from the steps of the agricultural building, after fitting remarks presented a fine Grange banner and a loving cup to Suncook Grange of Lovell for best exhibits in the upper and lower halls. He also awarded to Eagle Grange of North Chatham, N. H. a nice Grange banner and a loving cup for second best exhibit. These trophies are to be kept for one year, and each to become the property of the Grange winning first in its class in 1909.

Responses to the remarks of Mr. Stetson were made by Douglas V. Locke of Lovell and Richard Chandler of Chatham. A fine concert by Chandler's First Regiment Band preceded these exercises.

WEST MINOT.

The Donor of the West Minot Bell.

J. G. Hilborn of West Minot has been in the local limelight for the past few weeks on account of his giving a bell to the church of his native village. He is a quiet retiring gentleman, who lives alone, not far from the church to which he has made his gift, the spire of which pointing heavenward has been a daily sight to him, and quite likely suggested the present.

He is an old family in Minot. It is of Scotch ancestry, first immigrant settling in Pennsylvania, and appears to have been a follower of Wm. Penn. The originator of the name in Maine, Robert, came to Falmouth at about the opening of the Revolutionary war and enlisted in the army from that place. After the war he settled in Hebron and after a few years moved to that part of Bakerstown known as Minot. The family has lived in that town for several generations and intermarried with many of the prominent families.

The donor of this bell is the last member of the family by the name in town and with his death the name may become simply a recollection. His mother was Lucy Bradford Greenwood, daughter of Major Greenwood, who was born on the summit of Greenwood Mountain where the Hebron Sanatorium now stands. It is in memory of this mother that he gave the bell.

Mr. Hilborn has many heirlooms that have come down in the family—old furniture, dishes and clocks. The grandfather of this man, Samuel Hilborn, was maker of the old grandfather clock-cases and there are several of these clocks about the house. In the parlor a silhouette of this grandfather Samuel and another of his wife. Several members of the families have been quite extended travellers, visiting Europe, Asia and the western part of our own country, and to the heirlooms of the family can be added many curios, so it is an interesting house to visit.

Mrs. Inez Hammond of West Paris and Philip Bonney of South Paris were admitted to the Lewiston M. G. hospital last week.
